Propify selected in top 25 Start-ups to Pitch to Investors in Silicon Valley

12 February 2018, Silicon Valley

Palo Alto, CA, February 12, 2018: Propify, the Noosa Heads based property technology firm revolutionising real estate marketing around the world has been invited to pitch to investors in Silicon Valley.

The company has recently received rave reviews in New York City with its ground breaking and game changing real estate listing & search platform, recognised in New York as the “Top 25 Under The Radar Companies You Must Watch”.

Propify’s aim is to provide an open, fair and free real estate search platform for buyers, sellers and real estate agents. The company employs the use of Blockchain to deliver its No-Portal framework, whereby real estate listings are published on social media, search engines and its own Block Explorer.

“Propify is a solid product and it is encouraging to receive great recognition and feedback within the New York Real Estate Community,” Propify Managing Director Stephen Sharry says.

“It is even more encouraging to be one of 25 start-ups, not just Property Technology start-ups to pitch to Silicon Valley investors.”.

Propify has a solid team of leading technology, finance and property executives from private and public sectors within Australia and the United States. It is no surprise Propify has been providing commentary on Blockchain’s imminent rally on the property industry, speaking with CBS, Bisnow and top real estate specific publications.

“The interest Propify is receiving is a concrete endorsement that the path we are on is the right path,” Sharry adds.

“Within three years, the real estate listing and search platforms will greatly change. In my professional opinion, the entire property technology landscape change dramatically in the next three years from today’s available technology.”.

Propify has the right building blocks for success, with its high calibre team, solid technology and international industry endorsement, the company is ideally placed to lead property technology into the future.

Accepted as one of the finalists to pitch to Silicon Valley investors is a great achievement for the company. Propify won its placement over thousands of applicants to pitch its product and business offering. The Propify team will present on February 15, 2018, Californian time.
